Community Reinforcement and Family Training (CRAFT)

CRAFT is a 6-8 week (depending on numbers) Family Training Programme for concerned significant others (CSO's) 'Living with Addiction'.

It is a comprehensive cognitive-behavioural programme designed to empower any family member/CSO living with addiction.

Family members can, and do, make important contributions in areas of addiction treatment, and can play a powerful role in reducing their loved one's harmful drinking or using, engage them into treatment, and improve their own emotional, physical and relationship functioning.

CRAFT teaches the skills to train and prepare any family member/CSO to influence their loved one, whether in treatment or resisting treatment.

CSO's attending the CRAFT programme also benefit by becoming more independent, reducing their own depression, anxiety and anger symptoms even if their loved one does not enter treatment.

Helping to Engage the Substance User

The CRAFT intervention is a scientifically-based intervention designed to help CSO's to engage with substance users currently in treatment or refusing treatment. It is often the substance user who reports that family pressure or influence is the reason they sought treatment.

Since family members can, and do, make important contributions in other areas of addiction treatment, CRAFT has been developed to help CSO's play a powerful role in engaging with the substance user who is in treatment or is resistive to treatment.

In addition, CRAFT teaches CSO's skills to enhance their own lives, regardless of whether the person enters treatment.

CRAFT's 3 Major Goals

- Reduce loved one's harmful drinking/using
- Engage loved one into treatment
- Improve the functioning of the CSO (emotional, physical, relationships)

Purpose

- Empower CSO to influence change
- Train CSO in behaviour change skills
- Improve CSO's quality of life
- Prepare CSO for treatment engagement

Rationale for Working with CSO's

- Substance users often report that family pressure prompted them to seek treatment
- CSO's can influence substance users' behaviour due to extensive contact
- CSO's also need help (victims of violence, financial problems, and marital conflict etc.)

CRAFT Programme Description for the CSO

- Problem-focused
- Skills-based
- Active during sessions (Role Plays)
- Active between sessions (Assignments)
